考研英语二真题 2018年text1第2段

Mr. Koziatek is part of something pioneering. He is a teacher at a New Hampshire high school/where learning is not something of books and tests and rote memorization, but practical. When did it become accepted wisdom/that students should be able to name the 13th president of the United States but be utterly bamboozled by a busted bike chain?

overwhelmed 被、淹没；被一压倒，不知所措

pioneer n. 先锋 adj. 先驱的

On one hand, that viewpoint is a logical product of America's evolution.

Manufacturing is not the economic engine that it once was. The job security that the US economy once offered to high school graduates has largely evaporated.

More education is the new principle. We want more for our kids, and rightfully so.

But the headlong push into bachelor's degrees for all--and the subtle ~~devaluing of (anything less)~~--misses an important point: That's not the only thing the American economy needs. Yes, a bachelor's degree opens more doors. But even now, 54 percent of the jobs in the country are middle-skill job, such as construction and high-skill manufacturing. But only 44 percent of workers are adequately trained.

In other words, at a time/when the working class has turned the country on its political head, frustrated that the opportunity/that once defined America/ is vanishing, one obvious solution is staring us in the face. There is a gap in working-class jobs, but the workers/who need those jobs/most aren't equipped to do them. Koziatek's Manchester School of Technology High School is trying to fill that gap.
